

Voiceblast

The Voice Broadcasting Service for Incident Alerting and Management

Overview

Leveraging the benefits of PageOne SmartGroup technology, Voiceblast extends the power of group messaging by adding a high-volume voice broadcasting capability to your critical communications plan. With secure pin access and your own dedicated 'blast' number, Voiceblast equips you with a resolute and reliable, high capacity messaging resource to complement and enhance your incident management messaging strategy.

Making SmartGroups smarter

Voiceblast is immediately available to all existing users of PageOne Smartgroups. All that customers need do is contact PageOne to subscribe. Once set-up, organisations have an additional mechanism for contacting their group members. Messages can be resent until they are accepted, and a missed 'blast' accessed by a recipient using secure authentication.

Features

- > Dedicated access number
- > Configurable 'blast' retry
- > Positive message acceptance
- > Real-time call reporting
- > Definable 'from' number
- > Live management of 'blast' recipients
- > Secure PIN access

Location independent

Blasts can be recorded and initiated using any touch-tone telephone.

Live call reporting

At a glance, incident management staff can view the real-time delivery status of a blast message, complete with a breakdown of group members that have answered and accepted the message, and those that haven't. It gives controllers the information they need to make timelier decisions on when to resort to alternative means of contact.

An incident management essential

When the emotive qualities of voice are required, Voiceblast provides the perfect means for incident management staff to quickly and easily update and alert general personnel and specialist response teams with one simple phone call.
